

WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 12. 1743.

Petersburgh, September 24.

HER Imperial Majesty has issued Orders for recruiting and completing all the Regiments of Horse and Foot in her Service; as also for filling the Magazines in Livonia, Carelia, and the Frontiers of Finland, that she may be always in a Condition to fulfil the Promises she has made the Swedes, in case of a War, not only to support them, but also against his Allies, in case that Prince gives out should prove to be Fact, viz. that he is to be supported in his Pretensions by more than one German Potentate. The Czarina has lately sent one of her Chamberlains to assure the Prince and Princess of Brunswick, that as the late Conspirators do not intend to have any Correspondence with, or Countenance from their Highnesses, her Imperial Majesty is so far from making them any Way accountable for the conduct of these wicked People, that she is desirous of giving them fresh Marks of her Clemency and Goodness, by renewing her Instructions to the Governor of the Province, to treat them with all the Respect due to their Quality, and to assign them an annual Pension of 1000 Rubles for their own Subsistence, and for defraying the Expence of such as have the Honour to attend on them.

Stockholm, October 6. His Majesty has been pleased to bestow the Command of the Army, at present, upon Prince Rolfen; but as his Majesty has given Directions getting his Field Equipage in Readiness, as soon as possible, it is generally believed that he will make the Campaign in Person in Scania; where, according to all appearance, the Danes intend to make a Descent. Count von, our Ambassador at Copenhagen, having lately presented a Memorial, setting forth, That the Peasants of Pomerania, and other seditious Persons, have given out, they were instigated by, and expected Support from the Court of Denmark, his Danish Majesty thought proper to declare, that the same was altogether false; and that he neither had, nor would have, any correspondence whatever with such People. It does appear, however, by the last Letters from our Ministers, that this Monarch inclines to listen sincerely to Propositions of Peace which have been made to him, or even to accept the Mediation of the States-General; but that he rather labours to amuse us with a false and intricate Negotiation, while he is carrying on Military Preparations, in such a Manner, as gives us Reason in the World to suspect he aims at the Conquest of this Kingdom; the rather, because, contrary to his usual Custom, he has imposed very heavy Taxes upon his Subjects, and such as it is impossible for them to support for any Time; whence we conclude, that notwithstanding the Lateness of the Year, he will make his utmost Efforts this Year.

Lomborough, October 8. It is publickly discoufured, that the late Discovery of a Conspiracy at Peterburgh was the true Cause that the Danish Preparations were drawn into such a Length; and it is the Opinion of many of our best Politicians, that we shall have the News of a Peace, or, at least, of Preliminaries being signed. It appears to us very mysterious, that the Marquis de Botta, who was the Queen of Hungary's Minister, should always assure the Conspirators of being supported by Prussia; at the same time it is evident here, that the Crown of Denmark receiv'd every Month considerable Remittances from France, and the French Minister in Sweden openly oppos'd the Election of the Bishop of Lubeck. These things taken together, appear so dark, and so contradictory, that some are tempted to believe the Marquis de Botta is either Innocent of what is charg'd upon him, or that, if he really had any Hand in the late Treasonable Intrigues, he therein betray'd the Interest of his Mistress, as well as plotted against a Court in which he resided with a Publick Character. We likewise call to mind, that a little before this Conspiracy was discover'd, a certain Prince drew abundance of his Forces towards the Frontiers of the Russian Dominions, which, with other suspicious Circumstances, enable us to suspend our Opinion, till Time, which enters all Things, shall give us a clearer Prospect into the Cause of such Obscurity.

Stockholm, October 10. His Imperial Majesty being recover'd of the Gout, is now in good Health, and takes the Air every Day. It appears by the Countess which are almost daily held with the Prussian and Saxon Ministers, that some new Scheme is actually on the Carpet, for restoring the Emperor to his Hereditary Dominions; and it has even been whisper'd within these few Days, that his Imperial Majesty would speedily communicate some Propositions to this Purpose, by a Rescript to the Dyet. It is confidently reported, that Prince Charles of Lorraine had a Conference lately with his Britannick Majesty, in relation to Winter-Quarters; in which it was agreed, that the Irregular Troops should keep the Field as long as possible, and that the Regular Forces should open the next Campaign early in the Month of March. According to our last Advices from Munich, the Queen of Hungary has resolv'd to keep constantly in the Electorate a Body of 18,000 Regular Troops, and 12,000 Hussars and Croats, who are to be maintained at the Expence of the Inhabitants.

Worms, October 13. On Thursday last his Majesty gave Orders for the combined Army's returning to Worms; and accordingly, on Friday Morning, at Break of Day, it was in full March, and arriv'd about Ten at Mutterstadt, where his Majesty lay that Night. Yesterday it march'd to Frankenthal, and this Forenoon encamp'd in the Neighbourhood of this Place, where his Majesty arriv'd about Ten. To-morrow it halts, and on Thursday will march towards Oppenheim.

THE Elements of ALGEBRA, in a New and Easy Method; with their Use and Application, in the Solution of a great Variety of Arithmetical and Geometrical Questions, by General and Universal Rules. To which is prefix'd, An Introduction containing a succinct History of this Science.

By Mr. NATHANIEL HAMMOND, of the Bank.

Extract from the Account of this Book in the Works of the Learned.

'The World has long complained of the Want of a proper Introduction to Algebra. Some are so very concise, as if they were contrived not to teach but introduce a Teacher; others again are larger, but wrote with so little Condensation to the Understandings of such as are altogether unacquainted with the Science, that they are of very little Use to those who are most inclined to make use of them. Whence it comes to pass, that few find it practicable to make any Progress in Algebra without a Master, tho' certainly the Science in itself is far from surpassing a clear Head, and a tolerable Understanding.

'The Design of this Treatise, which is of a reasonable Bulk, and which contains nothing which is not solid, and to the Purpose, is to assist such as are engaged in teaching Algebra with a regular Method, and a large Stock of Examples; so that their Scholars may find Employment in their Absence; and to enable such as live in Country-Places, and must consequently want all other Tutors, except Books, to acquire such a Skill in this Science, as may enable them to spend a Portion of their Time agreeably in the Cultivation of their better Parts, and in rendering a natural Method of enquiring after Truth habitual.

'The Treatise begins with a copious Explication of the Fundamental Principles of the Art, and of the Signs and Method of Notation used therein. The Author then proceeds to the several Rules, explaining them carefully and copiously in all their various Cases; so that with a moderate Attention it is simply impossible for a Person, who desires to be Master of Algebra, to miss of his End.

'We never find this Writer advancing any thing out of its proper Place, or burdening the Mind of his Scholar with Rules, before they become necessary: He professes to have imitated the judicious Euclid in this Respect; and he has done it with equal Art and Felicity. By this means he has delivered the young Student in Algebra from that which is usually the most fatiguing Part of the Science, viz. The Doctrine of Surds, in the Manner in which it is usually taught. By the same Means he leads his Reader directly to Equations; and, by shewing him the Profit he will reap from this Science, encourages him to overcome all its Difficulties. But having thus laid a strong and rational Foundation, he moves more slowly through the rest of his Work, that whoever follows him, may be obliged to become Master of every Branch of the Art, so as to be a complete Algebraist, before he quits his Book, and not a Smatterer.

'Quadratic Equations, and the Art of managing Converging Series, the admirable Invention of the incomparable Newton, are here so clearly explained, and their several Cases so plainly set down, and so thoroughly explicated, that it may be truly said, there are no where else such Instructions to be met with. At the Close of the Book, we find abundance of Observations, necessary for enlightening such Minds as are willing to proceed still farther in analytic Discoveries; so that considering the Compass of this Work, and that too is very moderate, it is as complete as possibly can be expected: And he who is thoroughly versed in it, will find no great Difficulties, when he proceeds to sublimer Studies. The Language is plain and natural, the Book is more copious than any other in Examples, and the Illustrations of them are so full and clear, that it is impossible to mistake their Meaning.

It is a certain, and, as it were, an instant Cure for Deafness, Thickens of Hearing, Noise or Pain in the Ears, from whatever Cause soever, or of ever so long standing, having cured Numbers of Persons of both Sexes, and all Ages, that have been in a manner totally deaf, after all other Means and Medicines external and internal, by Advice, and also by Physicians have fail'd, with the greatest Ease and Safety, and to the utmost Satisfaction and Wonder; for,

In a peculiar Manner it strengthens, softens, and looses the Drum of the Ear, which by being dried, or otherwise often the first, and chief Cause of every Complaint of Deafness, or of Noise, or Pain in the Ears, &c. To remove which, this noble Medicine is a true Specific, that never perfectly to cure all possibly curable Cases, after all other Means and Medicine have utterly fail'd; which is more than can be said of any other Thing in the whole World itself: Any Cold in the Head, or any Hurt by any Matter in the Ears, it instantly cures.
